About the Asan Institute

Mission Statement

As an independent, non-partisan think tank, the Asan Institute for Policy Studies is dedicated to undertaking policy-relevant research to foster domestic, regional, and international environments conducive to peace and stability on the Korean Peninsula.

The Asan Institute was established in commemoration of the Founder and Honorary Chairman of Hyundai Group, Chung Ju-yung, who left an indelible mark on South Korea’s modernization and inter-Korean exchanges towards peace.

Named after Chung Ju-yung’s pen name, “Asan,” Dr. MJ Chung founded the Asan Institute on February 11, 2008 to become a world-class think tank that mirrors South Korea’s place on the world stage.

II Research

Center for Foreign Policy and National Security

The Center for Foreign Policy and National Security was established to help devise foreign affairs and national security policies that contribute to the stability of Northeast Asia and the promotion of peace on the Korean Peninsula through theoretical considerations and empirical analysis of the ever-changing geopolitical environment internationally.

By holding joint academic conferences with a wide range of domestic and foreign research institutes, while also conducting research projects and releasing publications at the same time, the center plays an important role in contributing to the revitalization of public-private cooperation networks as it heightens the level of social discourse. The main research topics are related to multilateral cooperation and regional security, public diplomacy, and comparative analysis of foreign affairs and national security policies by country.

Center for Regional Studies

The Center for Regional Studies consists of four separate program areas—the United States, China, Japan, the Middle East, and Southeast Asia & Oceania—with the programs all attempting to analyze and understand each region by carrying out research on their relations with Korea. This includes a host of pending responsibilities and issues, notably those concerned with politics, economics, society & culture, and international relations in each specific area. While exploring the direction of foreign policy through detailed investigations into a particular region and its associated countries, the center highlights Korea’s role as a developed and technologically advanced country in the always-changing international community.

The Public Opinion Studies Team is contributing to the drafting of policies and collecting data on public opinion by analyzing how domestic sentiment is changing through public opinion surveys and statistical analysis. On the other hand, it is also summarizing and evaluating policies using mathematical modelling, such as quantitative analysis and statistical tools, and coming up with future policy alternatives based on these results. What's more is that by disclosing a large amount of qualitative and quantitative data to experts and the public at large, the team is also playing a critical role in encouraging social discourse to derive policy alternatives.

- 2024 “Future of Asia: Prosperity and Security”
(May 14, 2024)

Asan Symposium

The Asan Institute holds an annual Asan Symposium to promote multilateral cooperation for world peace and to propose rational policy alternatives regarding international issues. In light of this, the Asan Symposium invites highly respected scholars and leaders from myriad fields to spur important public discourse on international political issues facing both the Korean Peninsula and the world, while also contributing to the expansion of dynamic international exchanges.

Asan Policy Forum

The Asan Policy Forum is a monthly meeting of foreign affairs and national security experts to analyze time-sensitive issues. Through expert presentations on urgent issues and subsequent discussions between conservative and progressive panels, policy alternatives that are objective and non-partisan are presented.

Joint Research

The Asan Institute is strengthening the promotion of academic exchanges with the international community by advocating for joint research with leading research institutes and global think tanks in the United States, Japan, and Europe, including the RAND Corporation, Brookings Institution, Chicago Council on Global Affairs (CCGA), and the Université Libre de Bruxelles.

Asan Roundtable

The Asan Institute regularly invites domestic and foreign scholars and policy experts to the Asan Roundtable, a forum for lively, unfettered discussions on topics related to the Korean Peninsula and international matters. The institute also conducts activities to discuss the situation on the Korean Peninsula and imminent diplomatic and security issues with foreign diplomatic missions in Korea.

IV

Publications

Issue Brief

Featuring noted experts in numerous fields and regions who provide astute insight into international issues, Issue Brief is a report that analyzes current domestic and international issues and pending diplomatic concerns in a timely manner in response to the rapidly changing international environment. The report covers topics such as national security, nuclear issues, diplomatic relations, governance, global governance, international law, science & technology, economics, democracy, culture, social issues and energy.

Asan Report

Through the publication of Asan Report, the Asan Institute provides extensive information on major international community issues to experts in the field of foreign affairs and national security, policymakers, and the general public. Published in either Korean or English (depending on the topics addressed), Asan Report deals with a variety of topics, ranging from national security, diplomatic policies, and regional studies to global governance and public opinion.

The Asan Forum (online English journal)

The Asan Forum is an online English-language journal that analyzes changes going on within the Asia-Pacific region. The journal’s main task is to highlight trends in major diplomatic issues not only inside but also outside the region. Specifically, by analyzing a situation based on the historical, social, and cultural contexts of each country, The Asan Forum provides a wide array of in-depth conclusions to readers.

Proceedings

Proceedings are published transcripts and summaries produced after conferences where world-class experts discuss policy initiatives and international diplomatic issues. They are provided to government officials, experts in the field, and the general public.

Asan International Security Outlook

Since 2015, the Asan Institute has been publishing an annual report that makes farsighted predictions about potential changes in the international environment vis-à-vis the Korean Peninsula. Asan International Security Outlook provides analysis and prospects by issue and region through one keyword selected every year, enhancing experts’ understanding and the general public’s awareness of changes in international matters as well as contributing to the government’s policy-making process.

The Asan Book Series

The Asan Institute publishes and translates books in various fields, ranging from foreign affairs, national security, and international relations to humanities and liberal arts. Edited volumes of conferences and research projects and translated books involving prominent scholars, experts and specialists in each field help broaden and deepen readers’ perspectives in a wide variety of relevant fields.
